Toxic round-up organization in question

By Janice Harrington

Organization of a toxic round-up day in Didsbury is in question after county fire departments decided against being responsible for the program.

County of Mountain View Fire Chiefs Association spokesperson John Whitesell said fire departments will no longer organize the annual round-up day this year because of the increased costs.

"The individual fire chiefs have decided the municipalities will have to organize it from now on," he said. "The costs are just becoming too great."

Cost of the one day annual program, created by Alberta Environment in 1988, was originally paid for entirely by the Alberta Special Waste Management Corporation. A gradual phase-out of provincial involvement in costs began last year. In 1991, municipalities were responsible for 1/3 of the associated costs. This year, they are responsible for 2/3. In 1993, municipalities be expected to pay all costs. These costs are for collecting, handling and shipping of the material. Processing costs are paid by Alberta Special Waste Management.

Whitesell said county municipalities paid over $7,800 for last year's round-up. Many towns, including Didsbury, took the money to pay their share from fire department budgets.

But Didsbury Town Administrator Mike Storey said the money for last year's toxic round-up did not actually come from the Didsbury fire department's coffers.

"We haven't talked to them about his decision yet," he said. "But last year budgeting for the fire department was increased to cover the costs. So while the cost did come from their budget it was over and above what they were actually allotted."

As to whether or not Didsbury will hold a toxic round-up day this year, Storey said a decision will have to wait until town council talks with the fire department and the county.

"The county contributes a certain percentage to the costs, so if the other towns decided not to hold a day and the county decides not to pay, I don't know what will happen," he said.

Blossoming knowledge

Visitors to the Olds College this weekend were treated to fresh, off the stem flowers from students in the greenhouse management program. The students grew the flowers especially for visitors to the College's Open House.

Hay plant to stay in Didsbury

By Janice Harrington

Owners of the Midwest Agri Hay Plant, which burned to the ground earlier this year, have announced that the plant will stay in Didsbury.

Ian Hopfe, manager of the special commodities division of Midwest Agri Commodities Co., said the decision has been made to keep the hay plant in the Didsbury area.

"There has been alot of talk going around that we weren't going to stay, so this is a good time to stop the rumors," Hopfe said.

Fire destroyed the previous hay processing plant, located in the former Didsbury Auction Mart east of town, last January 24. It had been operating for only two months before being shut down by the fire. Destruction of the plant put more than 30 people out of work.

The fire was labeled accidental after fire fighters discovered a piece of hot metal had come in contact with the hay inside the plant while employees were on a coffee break. Flames made short work of the hay and the 40-year-old building which housed the plant.

Hopfe said the insurance is still being worked out, but damages were estimated at around $1.5 million.

Final negotiations for the construction of the new plant are still underway, but Hopfe said official plans should be made within the next two weeks.

"It has been a very complicated process because of where other companies are located around here," he said. "But it was decided that the company wanted to stay in this area for sure."

Hopfe said Midwest Agri, a U.S.-based company, will give former employees first chance at the jobs that will be created by the new plant. He said the company hopes to have the new plant built and operating by the end of August.

Adult learning

Adults involved in literacy programs can now visit the Didsbury library for books suited to their special needs. Project Read-Soon coordinated a grant from the CRC to help purchase the books. The Didsbury Library Board also contributed towards the purchase of $1,000 worth of the books. Pictures are Project Read-Soon coordinator Elaine Graham, Librarian Kathy Craven, Recreation Board Chair Allan Tuggle and James Miller from the Didsbury Library Board.

New infant feeding advice

Mount View Health Unit is changing the advice for feeding babies to be consistent with current Canadian Pediatric Society recommendations. We will be now advising parents of non-breast fed babies to offer iron-fortified infant formula until the baby is 9-12 months of age. Furthermore, whole cow's (or homogenized) milk should not be introduced before 9 months of age. Breast milk is the preferred milk for infants until 12 months of age. These recommendations will help to ensure children have adequate iron and iron stores for their rapid growth.

Infant diets low in iron have been linked to poor growth, slower learning, shorter attention span and limited physical activity. An iron deficiency can permanently affect childhood development so it is important to ensure a diet adequate in iron during infancy.

Other dietary sources of iron for babies are also important. Iron fortified infant cereals and meats are high in iron and should be offered to babies as they are able to eat solids.

For more information on healthy feeding tips, contact a Community Health Nurse, Wendy Benson, Community Nutritionist or your physician.

Allergy alert

Regarding Christie Ritz Bits Sandwiches with Real Cheese

Local residents with allergies to peanuts are being warned to not consume goods from Christie Ritz Bits Sandwiches with Real Cheese packages bearing the numbers 152 and 153 as part of the lot numbers on the top of the box.

The Health Protection Branch (HPB) of Health and Welfare Canada issued the warning last week, based on information received by Nabisco Brands Ltd.

The HPB said the above noted packages in the 250 gram size may contain sandwiches with peanut butter filling. Approximately 250 cases of the product, distributed across Canada, may be affected.

The HPB added that this is only a health risk to those with allergies to peanuts. No other health risk has been associated with the consumption of this product.

Nabisco Brand Ltd. of Toronto is voluntarily withdrawing the product from store shelves and has provided a toll-free number (1-800-663-9838) to consumers who have any questions regarding this matter.

Spring selections at the library

The Didsbury Library is gearing up for spring! Come in and browse through a huge variety of gardening books. You can make a selection from landscaping your lawn, pruning your trees and bushes or ridding your plants and trees of pests. The library also has several books giving advice on flower and vegetable garden concerns for local planting.

Membership is free! The Didsbury Library is one of the few libraries remaining in the province that does not charge a service fee, so be sure to take advantage of this great gardening resource. If, by chance, the library does not stock the particular book you need, the staff would be glad to order it in from another library for you—no charge!

Library staff went shopping! Kathy Craven and Joyce Priest went on a book buying shopping spree and purchased four shopping carts full of new paperbacks. Their shelves are overflowing with bestselling adult novels as well as a huge selection of the most popular young adult books. The library is located right beside the town office so drop in and grab some reading entertainment.

Two charged in IGA theft

By Janice Harrington

Two young offenders have been charged with break, enter and theft after a tip from a Didsbury businessman led RCMP to a burglary in progress.

In a press release issued last week, Didsbury RCMP Sargeant Ray Mustard said a call from a man who noticed suspicious activity in the Didsbury IGA at 3 a.m. on March 31 helped them to apprehend two youths in the process of burglarizing the store.

The two youths, who cannot be named under the Young Offenders Act, have both been charged with break, enter and theft for the alleged incident. One of the youths was also charged with another 5 counts of break, enter and theft in relation to alleged break-ins at grocery stores in Didsbury and Carstairs over the past four months.

A separate charge of possession of stolen property was also laid against the youth, stemming from a report of a missing truck in Calgary.

In all of the incidents, RCMP said the primary target of the thefts was cigarettes.

Both youths are from Calgary.

Hospital volunteers

The regular meeting of the Hospital Volunteers was held Thursday, April 2 at the Nursing Home with 10 members present. President Hazel Milne opened the meeting with the Auxiliary prayer and welcomed Dennis Stabler, administrator of the Mountain View Health Care Centre.

In his address Stabler thanked the Volunteers for their help in providing quality care in the three departments of the centre. More volunteer help will be needed as cutbacks are experienced in 1993.

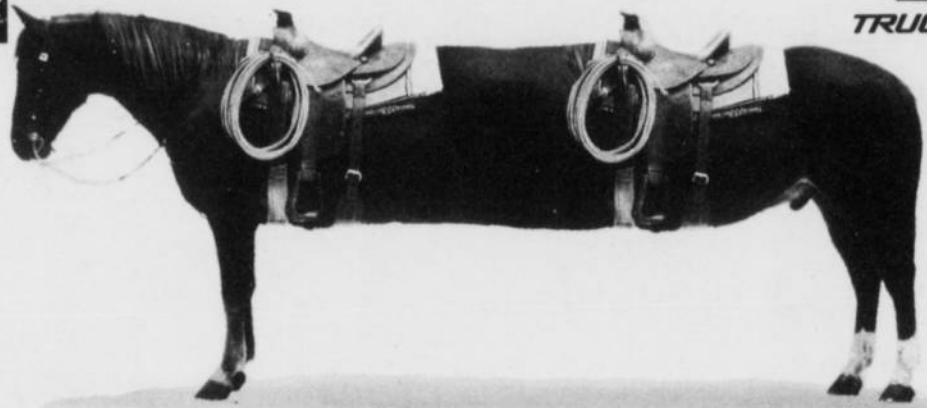

Stabler said that instead of participating in the trade fair the Health Care Centre is having Open House May 12, from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. during Canada Health Week.

President Milne expressed her thanks to those who supported a very successful Kidney Foundation blitz when $481.00 was collected.

The annual sale of carnations for Mother's Day will be held Friday, May 8, and the Annual Florence Nightingale Tea and Bake Sale will be held Wednesday, May 13 from 2-3:30 p.m. The theme will be Canada 125—Our People, Our Land, Our Future.

Helen Brown has taken on the position of convenor for Sunday Singing. She says there are many empty slots in the summer time. Anyone able to help in this capacity should contact her at 335-4807. Special thanks are extended to all who have taken part in the past.

OPINIONS/EDITORIAL

Collective screw tightening?

By Janice Harrington

Being from Manitoba, I grew up believing unions were God's gift to the employed. Lately, I have begun to question that belief.

It seems on every channel you turn to these days, be it radio or television, there are reports about union negotiations at a stalemate over salary issues. The NHL players' strike is a good example. The unionized are demanding significant increases in wage despite tough economic times, most often leaving the public as the loser.

It appears that unions are trying to negotiate themselves out of a job. Granted, there are many cases where salary increases are warranted and particularly deserved, but in the majority of cases, people making a good wage before their contracts expire suddenly decide they are underpaid. Where do they suppose the money will come from?

Unionized workers employed by my tax dollars, who repeatedly threaten or actually strike for higher wages, burn me the most. Postal workers go on strike nearly every year for higher wages in a job they would be paid half their current salary for in private industry. And we all pay for it by suffering with pricey stamps. Hospital employees are another example. While I have the utmost respect for people in the nursing profession, I just don't understand why they insist on more wages when the province is cutting back on hospital operating grants. The higher their salary demands, the more likely they will be laid off later because the hospitals can't afford to keep them on staff.

Most people who work in the nonunionized industries don't have the luxury of demanding higher salaries every year. Many times they take their cost-of-living increase home and consider themselves lucky, especially in today's job market. Those who do get significant increases do so because of merit, not because of threat.

Unions once had a place in this country, taking care of workers oppressed by factory owners and other unscrupulous employers, but today, as in Manitoba, they are bleeding the coffers dry. There are still many good reasons why unions should continue to exist, but collective screw tightening for wages isn't one of them.

Parking decision regretted

Dear Editor:

Having received a letter from the Canadian Paraplegic Association of Red Deer today, I'm writing on my behalf as a handicapped person.

The town council is of the opinion that designated on-street parking stalls would not suit the purpose for which they were meant as there is no by-law officer to police them. A family member already received a $30.00 fine for parking on the yellow line.

The town council, at the Feb. 22, 1992 meeting, wrote the following statement in the letter

"the local residents understand this action and have not voiced any displeasure with this action to town council." The question is how can a tax paying resident voice any displeasure when the subject of Handicapped Parking wasn't made to the handicapped residents of this town?

A call was made to Mike Storey before this letter came and at that time he said each business was responsible for one foot in front of their business. The ramps I've encountered are usually about a three foot buildup; therefore, leaving 2/3 of the area on town property, and also said there was no grant money available. The only accessible eatery in town we were informed by a waitress not to come back again if we moved a chair leaving it in the aisle.

I know of a wheelchair that could be borrowed and I'd like to challenge EACH and EVERY COUNCILLOR, MAYOR and CHIEF ADMINISTRATIVE OFFICER to wheel into a few businesses unassisted, except IGA. Waiting for your appointments.

EFile claims disputed

Dear Editor:

Re.: March 26, 1992 story, "New EFile saves taxpayers time," reminds me of the old saying: "I'm from the government and I'm here to help you."

We are just as glad as anyone to see Revenue Canada attempting to get up-to-date. We also welcome 'electronic filing' as a new tool which, properly used, should over-all be beneficial to clients, and hopefully to our own bottom line as well. No question, within a few years accountants will have no other practical option.

Of course, what is "new" is not computer preparation, which we have all been doing for years, but simply the way the taxpayer's return is initially communicated to Revenue Canada: by pushing a button instead of by mail. Back-up documentation will still have to be mailed in most cases, to say nothing of the accountant's 'brain-work' before anything can be safely entrusted to Revenue Canada.

'Electronic filing' will no doubt process some refunds more quickly—but so will the bill arrive sooner for those with a balance to pay. Besides, while accountants cannot 'create' refunds, anymore than Revenue Canada or the computer can, they have to work to establish the entitlement before 'EFile' or mailing the return.

When Ms. Pross refers to "the middleman" I'm sure she does not mean the accountant—i.e., herself. Further in the story however, Revenue Canada hopes "to eventually link up home computers," which pretty clearly indicates who they think the "middleman" is. To quote an official Revenue Canada publication: "the public does not need the services of a professional accountant to EFile."

Having said the above, a few caveats with regard to the 'new system'—

1. There is a danger returns will be 'filed' too hastily, either to access a refund more quickly, or to placate a client who might resist or complain of the accountant's fee. In our experience, most errors are caused by either the accountant or the client being too quick to complete a proper return. Where such haste results in taxable income being omitted or understated, the taxpayer, and/or his accountant may subsequently find themselves in difficulties.

2. We have some concern, that electronic filing may be perceived as a substitute for an experienced accountant's advice. The lack of such advice where needed will certainly be more costly than the 'saving' of the accountant's fee, or the paper and mailing costs.

4. Proper returns are still required to be printed out for the client and for the client's file. Also a special paper back-up 'return' still has to be mailed to Revenue Canada, along some receipts and documentation subsequently requested by Revenue Canada.

5. Many returns will probably be assessed first and checked later. This means more time to do cross-checking with third party information. This will no doubt result in more reassessments and reductions of refunds. Otherwise, Revenue

Speech from the Throne

Hon. Roy Brassard, MLA
Olds-Didsbury Constituency

On March 19, 1992, the Speech from the Throne officially opened the Fourth Session of the twenty-second legislature of the Province of Alberta. The throne speech was delivered by the Lieutenant Governor, his Honour Gordon Towers, and it set the government's priorities and agenda for the session.

The major theme in this year's Throne Speech is that the provincial government will continue to be responsive to the needs and values of Albertans. In keeping with this theme, the government proposes to establish a select special committee to review parliamentary reform. Issues, such as election of the speaker and free votes within the chamber, are expected to be seriously considered.

One of the highlights of the speech was the government's promise to bring in an access-to-information law this spring. The bill will ensure that the government's policy of full disclosure of information is protected in law.

Of particular importance, is the government's commitment to provide new market initiatives to boost the economy and to sell off more government-owned companies. Assistance for the manufacturing sector and new market development initiatives for agriculture are expected to stimulate the economy. Recognizing the limits of present economic conditions, the government vowed to take measures both at home and abroad which would benefit the economy and create jobs for Albertans. One such initiative is the development of a strengthened economic union among the provinces. Dismantling existing interprovincial trade barriers is viewed as the first step to achieving greater prosperity for Education is a lifelong process. In a progressive society education provides the competitive edge. Canada's small and medium sized business sector has recognized this and is spending a considerable amount of time and money on on-the-job training.

Formal on-the-job training has long been recognized for its contribution to skills development, especially in the apprenticeship programs. In recent years, informal on-the-job training has also played a major role in the development of a skilled, adaptable workforce.

The training of new employees and the upgrading of the skills of more experienced staff members does benefit the employer directly by tailoring the abilities of the employees to the needs of a specific organization. It is also an investment in the economic future of our country. It is a tribute to our small business community that it has assumed the responsibility of active involvement in the educational process.

Beef and light horse club

By Elissa Sakariassen

A brief update over a long period of time.

Well, spring has fully sprung and with it comes the early but vigorous preparation for shows in May and June. Whether combing all the shedding hair from your horse or trying desperately to halterbreak your show steer, spring can be a very busy time for 4-Hers.

Our public speak-off was held in February. The winners in the junior division were Renee McNeil and Rachel Sawatzky with Jonas Schultz placing alternate. And in the senior division Lisa Loewen and Roland Sawatzky took the top two placings while Michelle Boettcher was alternate. Congratulations to these members. Thank you to all of the judges and others who helped on this day.

Our most recent meeting was held in early March. At this time we had a judging workshop. All who attended did quite well and it was excellent experience for first year members. Thank you to Sawatzkys for allowing us to use their facilities and cattle to judge. It was much appreciated. Also, thank you to Mr. and Mrs. Clark for their advice and expertise. We also discussed the probability of making balloon animals and such at the Didsbury Trade Fair.

The Light Horse Club is off to a good start this year with approximately 10 riders. If you are unsure of riding times you can contact Tracy Kasprick at 335-4647 in the evenings. We are hoping to have several workshops. Times and dates will be announced.

Our next regular meeting should be April 13th at 7:30 sharp. Good luck to all of the members in preparation and hope you have a wonderful spring!

UFA profits down

United Farmers of Alberta Co-operative Limited announced a 1991 sales total of $320,480,000 down 11.2 % from 1990. Net earnings for 1991, before income tax, were $2,963,000, down $8,760,000 or 74.7%.

The company's total assets were $119,267,000, a decrease of 8% from the previous year. Members' equity for 1991 was $73,721,000, down 3.2% compared to the 1990 year end, representing 61.8% of total assets.

Delegates to the UFA annual meeting, held in Calgary March 10th to March 12th, authorized allocation of dividends for the 1991 year amounting to $2.04 million. UFA will return $1.37 million in cash to its members. Over the last five years, UFA has returned $24.1 million to its members.

Directors voted in a new president, Mr. Orval M. Sorken of Sexsmith, Alberta, to replace Mr. Howard Haney, who retired after 17 years as UFA President.

Several locations were added to UFA's network during 1991. Farm stores were opened in Leduc, Fort Saskatchewan, and Medicine Hat. Agencies were opened in Leduc, Fort Saskatchewan, Medicine Hat, and Ponoka, making UFA one of the largest farm supply co-operatives in Alberta, with 130 petroleum outlets, 33 farm supply stores, and approximately 70,000 active members throughout Alberta.

Ultrasound to predict lean lamb

Ultrasound may be a tool to help lamb producers meet the challenge of providing leaner lamb says an Alberta Agriculture sheep specialist.

In response to consumer demand for leaner lamb, a new classification system for lamb carcasses is expected this fall says Kim Stanford of the beef cattle and sheep branch. The new system proposes paying producers for their slaughter lambs based in part on the percentage of lean meat in the carcass.

"The challenge to sheep producers will be in selecting breeding stock to meet the consumer demand for lean, muscular lamb," Stanford says.

Predicting a lamb's carcass composition by visual appraisal is difficult she says. "By the time the lambs are hanging from the rail in the slaughter plant, it's a little too late to save lean, well-muscled lambs for breeding stock."

One possible means of predicting carcass composition in live sheep is the use of real-time ultrasound. Real-time ultrasound provides an image of body tissues and has been used for pregnancy diagnosis both for humans and sheep.

Results from a recent research trial conducted by Alberta Agriculture in cooperation with Agriculture Canada demonstrate ultrasound can be used to predict both subcutaneous (under the skin) fat depth and ribeye area in sheep.

"If you know a lamb's weight, a measurement of the depth of fat under the skin will provide a good estimate of carcass lean meat yield, while the measurement of the area of the ribeye muscle provides an estimate of overall carcass muscling," says Stanford.

Previous attempts at predicting carcass composition in sheep were only moderately successful she notes. "Some physical characteristics of sheep, such as the presence of wool, loose skin and a mobile subcutaneous fat layer made it difficult to collect accurate ultrasound measurements."

This study, she adds, demonstrates recent advances in ultrasound technology have improved the accuracy in predicting a sheep's carcass composition. Stanford predicts an increasing use of real-time ultrasound as a tool for the selection of sheep breeding stock.

Canola varieties sweep province

Ultrabred canola varieties swept the province in popularity this past season, according to Alberta Pool's 1991 variety survey. The varieties Colt, Horizon, and Legend combined to capture a significant amount of the province's canola acreage—doubling the results of the same survey in 1990.

Now, the results of an omnibus study completed by an independent research firm back up the Pool's findings.

The omnibus study was conducted by Calgary research firm The Dunvegan Group last fall. With both surveys having similar results, Ultrabred Supervisor Keith Martin says there's no question that Ultrabred varieties have increased in popularity.

"The numbers clearly show the wide acceptance of Ultrabred varieties throughout the province," he says.

With the number of new canola varieties that have become available to Alberta farmers over the last few years, the success of the Ultrabred varieties is no mean feat for Alberta Pool.

Horizon, a variety with better lodging resistance and higher yields than Tobin, was grown on 34 percent of Alberta farms growing Polish canola varieties last year according to Dunvegan's results. Colt, another Polis-type variety increased significantly in usage over 1990 figures.

In the Argentine-type varieties, Legend, doubled its 1990 acreage according to Alberta Pool's study, capturing 17 percent of the Argentine market. Martin says Legend has caught on especially well in the eastern part of the province, where, compared to Westar, its higher yield and superior tolerance to blackleg really show up.

"The omnibus study confirms the strength of Alberta Pool's Ultrabred canola in the marketplace," says Martin. "These varieties have been well accepted by farmers."

In total, close to a million acres of Ultrabred canola were seeded by Alberta farmers in 1991. Martin says the higher yields delivered by these three varieties will generate millions of dollars in extra revenue for Alberta farmers. "The spin-off is good for all of Alberta."

These varieties are the result of a small research program established by Alberta Pool fourteen years ago. The Ultrabred canola research program has grown steadily to include a state-of-the-art canola testing laboratory and over 20,000 test plots at eight different sites throughout the province covering a total of 90 acres of land.

"The success of our early Ultrabred varieties has enabled us to really get the research ball rolling," says Martin. "With many more varieties in the research pipeline, farmers can expect to see more improvements in all crops, not just canola."

Feed weed options provide farmers with certainty

How much would you pay at seeding time to guarantee a minimum price for your crop after harvest? What if you also had the opportunity to take advantage of any price increase between now and then?

Spring is just around the corner, and growers are once again looking for ways to reduce market risk and improve the price they get. Using Winnipeg Commodity Exchange options, they can do both.

The options program is the Exchange's response to a growing demand by farmers for better marketing tools. Options provide a relatively simple route to more systematic and predictable pricing on a year round basis. Although currently offered only on canola, options contracts on feed wheat futures will commence trading on April 1, 1992.

What exactly is an option contract? Basically, it's a flexible price insurance tool. In exchange for a premium, you can lock in a chosen price level for a period of time. If feed wheat futures prices move below that level when you want to sell your crop, "cashing in" the contract brings you the insured price.

As with the already launched canola program, there are two different kinds of options available for feed wheat at the WCE.

1. A put option is designed for the seller of feed wheat, generally the grower. This person puts feed wheat on the market, hence the term "put" option.

The purchaser of a put option has the right to sell a particular feed wheat futures contract at a pre-determined price at any time during the life of the option, but is not obligated to use his right. This feature provides, in effect, price insurance against the possibility of declining prices for the cost of an insurance premium.

2. A call option is designed for the buyer of feed wheat, such as a feedlot, who is seeking protection against rising prices. This person calls feed wheat off the market, hence the term "call" option. The purchaser of a call option has the right to buy a particular futures contract at a pre-determined price at any time during the life of the option, but is not obligated to use his contract.

Besides getting protection from rising prices, for the cost of an insurance premium, call option buyers can still benefit from falling prices, because they are not locked in to a specific price.

With spring fast approaching, it's tempting to focus on seeding and forget about marketing. But both are critical if you want top returns from this year's feed wheat crop.

Further information on options, including a user friendly video on using the options market from a farmer's perspective, a step-by-step workbook, and a variety of pamphlets are available from The Winnipeg Commodity Exchange at (204) 949-0495.

Program to de-mystify options great success

A key to success in farming today is knowledge—awareness of innovative ways for farmers to get the best price possible for their crops.

It was to meet this need for knowledge that The Winnipeg Commodity Exchange (WCE) has conducted an extensive educational program on how farmers may benefit from trading in options on its canola futures contracts. The program was launched soon after the WCE started trading with canola options last September.

Since then the WCE has held 200 meetings of farmers in the three prairie provinces and northern British Columbia. At these four hour workshop sessions experts from the WCE achieved a high level of success in de-mystifying options contracts.

A good measure of the success of this information program is the fact trading in canola options is well ahead of target. Since last September 6,500 canola options have been traded.

Following on the success of the Canola options, The Winnipeg Commodity Exchange has planned to introduce trading in feed wheat options beginning on April 1, 1992.

Expansion of options trading to feed wheat is a timely opportunity for farmers. The marketplace has seen prices for feed wheat reach historical low points during the past couple of years. In fact, many growers are holding back marketing their crop in the hope of better prices.

What an active option market does is enable farmers to achieve guaranteed minimum prices and still be in a position to take advantage of higher market prices, when these occur during the life of a contract. A farmer can get the best of both worlds—financial security from knowing he, or she, has a guaranteed floor price; and at the same time an opportunity to exploit a rise in feed wheat prices.

Properly used, the options market provides those who participate in its trading activity with the means to enjoy much greater financial certainty.

Because of the potential of options trading strengthening sectors of the industry, the federal government's Western Economic Diversification Fund has committed more than $1 million toward the WCE's options program. A large percentage of these federal funds have been earmarked for the informational meetings of farmers and other marketplace participants over the next two and a half years.

The objective is to extend options trading to other oilseeds and grains besides canola and feed wheat. Due to be introduced next is flax, and it is hoped that domestic feed barley, oats, and western feed barley will be introduced in the future. The market will be expanded in a carefully measured way, in order to have thorough understanding of how each commodity can best benefit from options trading.

It's a marketing alternative that offers farmers in particular an important new way to achieve greater financial security.

Further information on options, including a user friendly video on using the options market from a farmer's perspective, a step-by-step workbook, and a variety of pamphlets are available from The Winnipeg Commodity Exchange at (204) 949-0495.

Lumber business gets Manitoba blood

By Janice Harrington

Getting the business back into business is the focus of the new management of Oldbow Lumber in Olds.

Chris Jean, who took over Oldbow on March 2, said he plans to build up profits for the business which had been struggling somewhat in the past.

"I want to strive on competitive price and excellent service," said Jean. "And make more of an effort to cater to contractors and do-it-yourselfers."

The 25-year-old Jean, who moved from Rossburn, Manitoba to take over the business, has a diploma in structural engineering technology from the Red River College. Before moving, he ran the family lumber yard business in Rossburn.

Jean said he decided to make the move to Olds partly just for a change of pace.

"I haven't known anyone to move west and regret it yet," he said. "But also it got to a point in the business at home where I had to either expand or get out, so I decided to expand."

Jean said the opportunity to buy Oldbow, which has now been renamed Monarch Building Supplies, was mentioned to him by a supplier last February.

"It was a quick decision," he said. "But I am really enjoying things so far. Even though I had come out west many times for skiing, I had never been to Olds and I really like it alot. I like the small town atmosphere and the availability of things to do. I also like the part where I get to meet new people all the time."

Holiday hunt planned

Don Getty beware. . . . There's a good chance Family Day could be taken over by Easter, especially in Olds this year!

The idea is a welcome one to organizers putting on the first-ever "World's Largest Easter Egg Hunt and Easter Drama" Saturday, April 11 from 11 a.m. - 1 p.m. at the Olds Sportsplex.

Sheila Bonin, Event Coordinator, says families are what this Olds Word of Life Centre event is all about. "We believe it is crucial in today's world to encourage and support them. So much is there to challenge families that it is difficult to grow strong as a unit. That's why we're doing this . . . it's to give families something they can go to together that's interesting and fun," Bonin says.

To help bring her sentiments into action, Bonin has arranged to have a number of attractions "kids" of all ages can enjoy. Music, lights, and drama festively packaged in the form of a skit telling the tale of the Easter story is just a small part of the excitement. There will also be over 6,000 Easter candies and coloured eggs the children ages 0-15 years will have to hunt for—all compliments of the Olds community and the Word of Life Centre.

"The response from the residents in this area has just been phenomenal. We had a bottle drive last weekend and managed to raise $200 from donations . . . and we were even able to purchase the ghetto blaster we're planning on using as one of the door prizes at the wholesale price without GST," Bonin adds.

The idea to host the Easter Egg Hunt and Drama came to Bonin after returning from a church conference she recently attended in Phoenix, Arizona. "Their group had about 3,500 participants involved which is alot, but we expect there to be at least 4 to 500 at ours, and that's still pretty good."

Bonin says they've even arranged to have a guest of honor attend their event—someone who goes by the name of Mr. P. Cottontail—no autographs please!

Roped into education

Prospective students at the Olds College learned a little about calf roping Friday. Actually, the prospectives were learning a little about the campus and the town through a scavenger hunt. The students were tied together in groups just to make it more interesting.

Millions spent on Caroline project

By Janice Harrington

Millions of dollars are being spent locally by contractors working to build the Shell Canada natural gas plant near Caroline.

Ben Magnusson, Shell Canada Caroline project director, said a total of $78 million been spent in the local area to date.

"That's 30 percent of our total expenditures," Magnusson said. "We have spent $600 million to date on the entire project."

The area, as defined by Shell, includes Innisfail, Rocky Mountain House, Caroline, Sundre, Olds, Didsbury, Cremona and Carstairs.

Construction of the Caroline project began in October 1990 and is expected to be completed by late 1992. Total exploration and development cost of the natural gas reserve is expected to cost around $950 million. Total revenues from the project are estimated at $10 billion over the plant's 25-year operation.

Development of the project began in 1986 when the natural gas field was discovered. Magnusson said the reserve itself contains 56 billion cubic meters or 2 trillion cubic feet of raw gas. This represents 10 percent of Alberta's proven natural gas liquids and 25 percent of its remaining sulphur reserves.

"At this size, it is the most significant discovery in the last 20 years in Canada," Magnusson said. "And it is being developed without government involvement."

Once completed, the plant will process about 300 million cubic feet of raw gas per day. About 28,000 barrels a day of natural gas liquids will be transported by pipeline to Edmonton for further processing or distribution. Liquid sulphur drawn from the reserve will be piped to a sulphur forming facility at Shantz (near the Mobile Harmattan plant) where it will be cooled in to pellets for rail transportation to the coast. About ¼ of the sulphur recovered from the site will stay in Alberta. The remainder will be shipped to overseas markets.

Currently, Magnusson said, construction of the project is about 35 percent complete. Construction work is at its peak, with over 2,000 workers currently on site, 32 percent coming from the local area.

Between 130-140 people will be employed for plant operations. Magnusson said about half are already working. The remaining half have been hired and are expected to start within the next month. Hiring for the Shantz sulphur forming facility is still underway.

The Shell Caroline Project is a shared project with Shell Canada holding about 72 percent interest in the field. Other working partners in the project are Husky, Union Pacific Resources, Atcor, Numac, Norcen, Pan Canadian, Altana and Precambrian Shield Resources.

Caroline rising

The media got to tour the Shell Caroline project plant to see how construction of the multi-million dollar project was doing. Construction of the plant is at its peak with nearly 2,000 workers on site.

CARSTAIRS NEWS

Cancer fundraiser successful

By Janice Harrington

A friendly fundraiser, organized to raise money for the Canadian Cancer Society, netted about $2,000 this past weekend.

Event organizer Don Day said 75 people turned out for the pheasant shoot Saturday, April 4, to help raise money in the memory of Lorne Howes.

Howes, a Carstairs resident who died of leukemia three years ago, was an avid outdoorsman, said Day.

"I grew up with Lorne," he said. "I guess you could say he was my best friend. We were close and did a lot of hunting and fishing together. So his family and friends got together to do something in his memory. As far as I know, Lorne would have appreciated this."

The fundraiser, held at Silver Willow Pheasant Farm in Carstairs, included a 50-clay walk-around course for competition. Prizes were awarded to the top three scorers. Day said first place prize of a $250 framed print went to Kevin Rolfe of Edmonton. The owner of "Outdoor Edge" magazine scored 44 out of a possible 50 points. Second place went to Tom Riddell of Calgary and third to Bob Brown of Red Deer.

Day said the top scoring prizes and other door prizes were donated by businesses in the community.

"We were really pleased with the response we got for this," Day said. "We had people from all over the province and from Saskatchewan. And we had good support from the community."

Day said the fundraiser will now become an annual event.

CREMONA/WATER VALLEY NEWS

Arena addition rolling

By Janice Harrington

An addition to the Cremona Arena is underway with hopes of completion by the end of the summer.

Larry Gano, president of the Cremona Agricultural Society, which operates the arena, said workers are just finishing up drywalling on the second floor addition. The second floor, situated right above the present arena lobby, will hold the concession, a meeting room, two bathrooms and an ice viewing area.

"This addition was always in the plans," said Gano. "It was designed for it. It's just now that we decided that we had enough money to do it."

Gano said money for the addition came from a cow/calf operation the Ag Society has been running, ice revenues and left-over accumulation from a yearly operating grant the society receives from the province.

A significant amount of support also came from the Cremona Lions Club in the form of volunteer labour.

Gano said the Ag Society is currently looking for someone to do the drywall taping.

"After that we will have to add up our expenses and see where we're at," he said. "It's going to be close."

Cancer society calls for funds

April is Cancer Month and residents in rural communities in southern Alberta will join in helping the Calgary District Unit of the Canadian Cancer Society in its 1992 fundraising campaign. The projected rural contribution of $210,000 will greatly assist the Canadian Cancer Society in meeting its unit objective for 1992 of $1,849,000.

"We're counting on area residents to give generously, as they have in the past," says Holly Davidson, President of the Calgary District Unit. "The funds raised are vital to the patients we serve, the educational programs we support, and the research we sponsor. Every dollar counts, and the rural community support is essential."

Approximately 500 volunteers in communities such as Airdrie, Banff, Bassano, Canmore, Cochrane, Didsbury, High River, Nanton, Okotoks, Olds, Oyen, Strathmore, Sundre, Three Hills and Vulcan will begin canvassing this month (and some will also sell daffodils) in an effort to raise funds. Fifty-five per cent of the monies collected will go directly to funding research, five per cent will fund health professional education, and 10 per cent will fund patient services programs such as CanSurmount, Reach to Recovery, Lost Chord, the Wig Bank, and Volunteer Driver Services. A further 17 per cent will go to public education programs, and only 13 per cent to fundraising and administration.

Vladimir, this year's poster child, is among the many who benefit from the generosity of those who give to the Canadian Cancer Society. He was diagnosed with acute lymphoblastic leukemia in January 1989. Forty years ago Vladimir would have had a 20 per cent chance of surviving five years after diagnosis. Today, 65 per cent of children with acute leukemia are alive and well 10 years after diagnosis.

The Calgary District Unit of the Canadian Cancer Society is pleased to have Al MacInnis as its Honourary Campaign Chairperson for 1992. Last year, Al lost his mother—she was one of an estimated 56,000 Canadians who died of cancer in 1991. This year, more than 110,000 Canadians will be diagnosed with cancer,

FACING AIDS

"SAFER SEX": A FACT A LIFE

In the 90s, people who are concerned about their sexual health have learned to be careful when they decide to have sexual intercourse. They practice 'safer sex'.

What does 'safer sex' mean? 'Safer sex' may mean expressing sexuality without having intercourse. It could also mean avoiding unprotected sex until both partners are sure they are not infected with a sexually transmitted disease (STD), including HIV infection.

When having intercourse, a latex condom acts as a barrier preventing the spread of HIV and other STDs through semen and vaginal fluids.

Many people wonder if 'safer sex' is forever. The answer is 'YES' if HIV and other STDs are to be avoided.

Why? The fact is that the HIV which leads to AIDS can be in the body for ten years before symptoms are noticed. Many people continue to take risks without being aware of any need to be tested. Even if a person decides to be tested, the virus can be present in the body for up to six months before the test becomes positive. Having unprotected sex with a person who may be HIV infected is a life threatening risk.

Unfortunately, whether they know it or not, any person who is infected can pass the virus on to others. So 'safer sex' with a new partner requires protection for at least six months. After that, if both partners are tested and neither is infected, intercourse should be safe as long as neither partner has sex with anyone else or shares needles. If this couple has a baby, the baby will not be at risk of HIV infection.

More and more people are taking responsibility for protecting themselves and their loved ones. In this way the spread of HIV infection can be stopped. People have found many safe and loving ways to express their sexuality without putting their health at risk. If sexual intercourse is the choice, remember to practice 'safer sex'.

La Leche League news

Did you know... human milk can transfer specific or non-specific immunities to the external mucosal surface of the intestine and possible to the respiratory tract of the newborn. The acquisition of such passive immunity is particularly important to the early neonatal period when the immune system is immature. (Chang, S.J. Antimicrobial proteins of maternal and cord sera and human milk in relation to maternal nutritional status. Am. J. Clin. Nutr., 1990.)

Discussion at this month's meeting will include suggestions about nutrition for nursing mothers and their families as well as information about weaning the breastfed baby.

The meeting will be held on April 9th at 10:30 a.m. at the Didsbury ECS portable (next to the pool) at 21st Ave. and 21st St. Babies and children are welcome. Contact Gwen at 337-2490 or Luana at 335-2331 for more information or breastfeeding counseling.

Vimy Ridge battle remembered

April 9, 1917 is considered one of the greatest moments in Canadian military history.

"It was Canada from the Atlantic to the Pacific on parade. I thought then . . . that in those few minutes I witnessed the birth of a nation."

This was how Brigadier-General Alexander Ross recalled Canada's capture of Vimy Ridge, a victory that inspired a nation. It was 75 years ago on April 9, that the Canadian Corps scaled the heights of glory.

Vimy was the first place where all Canadian soldiers fighting in France came together to perform as a single unit. Separately, they had won admiration in various engagements - Ypres, Festubert, the Somme. Then, late in 1916, they were brought together to prepare for an assault on the German Army's strongest position in northwest France.

Vimy Ridge was a formidable barrier, guarding the way to mines and factories that fuelled the enemy war effort. It enjoyed many natural defensive advantages and was reinforced regularly. In 1915 alone, more than 130,000 French soldiers had been killed or wounded in an attempt to reach the top.

Superb planning and training ensured that the Canadian Corps would not suffer the same fate. A full-scale replica of the battleground was laid out behind Canadian lines. Aerial photographs updated defensive changes. Tunnellers cut out paths under the chalky ground, allowing the infantry to start their attack four miles closer to their objective.

The Germans knew the Canadians were coming, but they didn't know when. One of the enemy intelligence reports noted that the Canadians were "well suited to assault and never desert."

The attack itself was preceded by a "week of suffering" during which every available Canadian gun tried to soften up the enemy defences.

At 5:30 a.m. on April 9 the waiting was over. One hour before zero hour, snow fell and wind-blown sleet started blowing in to the faces of the enemy.

Some 15,000 Canadians were in the first wave. Resistance was weak at first, but stiffened once the Germans realized their impregnable fortress was in danger of falling. But all the training paid off. Unlike other armies which had advanced blindly en masse, the Canadians made for previously-pinpointed targets. It was a triumph of courage and tactics.

As swift as victory arrived, it did not come without cost. There were 3,000 dead out of a casualty list of 10,000. Three out of the four Victoria Crosses won at Vimy were awarded posthumously.

The Canadian victory at Vimy had a great impact at home and abroad. At home, there was jubilation that Canada had triumphed where others had failed. Confidence and a sense of patriotism arrived with the news from France. Abroad, Canada was applauded by world leaders.

The Canadian war record crowned by the achievements at Vimy, won for Canada a separate signature on the peace treaty ending the First World War.

Fittingly, the memorial commemorating the 60,000 Canadians killed in the First World War stands atop Vimy Ridge on land given to Canada in perpetuity by the people of France.

The Vimy Memorial honors and mourns those who were the nation-builders of their time.

For, as their commanding officer General Byng was to say later:

"There they stood on Vimy Ridge that 9th day of April, 1917, men from Quebec stood shoulder to shoulder with men from Ontario, men from the Maritimes with men from British Columbia, and there was forged a nation tempered by the fires of sacrifice and hammered on the anvil of high adventure."

In memory of the 75th anniversary of Vimy Ridge, the Minister of Veterans Affairs, the Honorable Gerald Merrithew, will lead a pilgrimage to the battle ground. It will be the last pilgrimage to the site.

Midget B's take fourth

Didsbury Midget "B" Rambler's placed 4th in the Red Deer Midget "A" Centrium Classic Hockey Tournament on the weekend of March 27, 28 and 29. After travelling through the snow storm to get to Red Deer and playing in awe of the beautiful facility, the Midget Ramblers lost their opener to the Red Deer King Meters by a score of 7-1. The King Meters eventually finished second in the tournament.

The loss put Didsbury in a game Saturday with their arch rivals from Carstairs. In a game that was full of emotions, the Didsbury players kept themselves together and stayed out of the penalty box. They were rewarded with a 5-4 victory and still a chance at the B final. The only thing between Didsbury and the B final was Castor. Didsbury was not even supposed to be in the running, they let the other teams believe that and played a hard game against Castor. Didsbury was down by two goals and going into the third period the team rallied with 5 third period goals and allowed only one ending the game with a 5-3 victory and a trip to the B final at 4:00 p.m. on Sunday. The opponents came from Drayton Valley.

This was a very hard fought game and Didsbury out played and out shot Drayton Valley by 25 shots but outstanding goaltending kept Drayton in the game and they eventually won 8-4.

Didsbury Midget "B" Rambler's were: Goalies: Rod Leaver and Cory Shields. Defence: Greg

Overwater, Cam Campbell, Conway Campbell, Casey Wright, Shawn Irwin, Tim Doyle. Forwards: Brett Israelson, Chad Brander, Shawn Schultz, Rob Chambers, Chad Krebs, Jason Sawatzky, Marty Sheridan, Ken Terpstra, and Kirk Fawns.

Didsbury Figure Skating news

On Sunday, March 22 in Leduc, the Vital Ice Precision Team skated their final performance of the season. The 23 member team gave a terrific performance, and skated away with a Silver Medal for their efforts. This concludes a very successful season for these hard working girls. They participated in three competitions this year, and collected one Bronze and two Silver Medals. Great Work, Girls! See you in the line-up next year! The Club would like to take this opportunity to thank Parkland Agri Services for their recent donation to the Figure Skating Club. This donation was put towards the cost of the hiring the Community Bus to take the team to Leduc.

The skating season has now concluded, with the last of the Senior tests completed on March 30, 31 and April 1. The club wishes to thank the coaches for their hard work, the skaters for their concentrated efforts, and of course the parents who spend countless hours at the arena! We hope to have an equally successful season next year.

Son's of Norway news

Fjellsyn Lodge #591 held their meeting on March 23. Noreen welcomed one guest, Jack Layton of Innisfail. Lisa Kamp of Carstairs and Ryan Porter of Calgary have joined the Sons of Norway Youth Committee. I'm sure you will enjoy your membership in this program.

Noreen and Ralph will be going as delegates to the Convention in Minot, N.D. in June.

Our next project will be the Syttandi Mai celebration at Eagle Hill on May 9. Tickets will soon be available.

There is a sports medals program for the members who regularly participate in exercise - walking, skiing, bicycling, or a combination of any exercise routine. I don't think detecting is included! Noreen will have more information on this soon.

Contact Olga if you're interested in the Rosemaking classes to be held April 24-25.

Jack Layton of Innisfail gave a very informative talk on Genealogy. He gave us good leads on how to trace our ancestry, he has been able to trace his family back to the 1700's. Thanks, Jack.

To Emil and Thelma, hope you're settled in your new home in Innisfail and we hope the coffee pot is still on.

Lefsa and coffee brought the evening to a close.

Our next meeting will be on April 27.

On March 15 members, family and friends enjoyed a fun day of curling and cards at Torrington. Olga took ladies high for cards and Inga, low. Oddie took high for the men's and Pete, low. The team of Borgie, Mardi and Scott Hunter took top honors in the curling.

A plentiful (as usual) pot luck supper and visiting ended a very enjoyable day.

Birthday Club met at the home of Frieda Bartz, with nine ladies present. All enjoyed doing a bit of handwork, visiting and having a lovely lunch, including a decorated birthday cake.

Farming has commenced in the area. Trees and shrubs are nearly leafed out. Thursday, April 2nd was a very hot day, almost seemed like July.

Dates to Note: Knox U.C.W. Spring Tea, bake table, white elephant and plant table will be held May 2nd in the Christian Education Room.

Westcott Coffee Party will be held second Wednesday, April 8th, at the Community Hall, 10 a.m.

Mount View Lodge news

By Annie Caush

Hi all! It's hard to believe we are into April but the weather we've had this winter, it has seemed like April for some time.

As usual we have been busy with a variety of activities. At the recent crib tournament, the winners were 1st Monica Jackson and 2nd Muriel Shanks. Congratulations.

The March birthday party was hosted by Mrs. St. Clair and Mrs. Jorsvick. We were entertained by Mrs. Macklin with some readings and Mrs. Alm playing the piano and some singing. We also enjoyed a lovely lunch. Those celebrating March birthdays were Mrs. Trimble, Mrs. Smith, Mrs. Stang, Mrs. Sutherland, Mrs. Wheaton and Mr. Berreth.

St. Patrick's Day is special for Mrs. Wheaton as it is her birthday and that day we had more entertainment with Mr. Derek Lewis singing for us and Mrs. Klatt playing the piano.

Yesterday Mrs. Schrader paid us a visit and showed pictures and told us of a trip she had taken to the Arctic. It was very interesting. We have also enjoyed those who faithfully come each month for various activities.

A number of residents paid a visit to the Sheep barn at the Olds College recently and really enjoyed the baby lambs.

Another day our "handyman" - Jim Sinclair brought in 4 puppies. I think they enjoyed the visit as much as we did.

Since our last "news" we were saddened by the death of a recent resident Mr. Sorenson. Our sincere sympathy to his family and friends. Our newest residents are Mrs. Helen Notley and Mrs. Eva Warren. We welcome you and hope you soon feel "at home."

We're all looking forward to the Auxiliary Spring Tea here on April 14th. We hope to meet many of our friends here. The Auxiliary does so much for us all year, they deserve your support. This year the entire proceeds from the Tea will be donated to the Lodge Building Fund.

In hospital we have Mrs. Garnett, Mrs. Huber, Mrs. Hammer, Mrs. Graham, Mrs. Luckham, Mrs. Weir, and Mr. Shortt. Get well soon. We miss you all!

Speech

all Canadians.

For the environment, the government promised to table legislation that will balance a strong, sustainable economy with a healthy environment. In addition, the government stated that it remains committed to working with other governments, the private sector and individual Albertans in an effort to adopt a global approach for environment standards.

Educating Albertans remains a priority for the government. Albertans can expect the government to maintain funding for education so that the concerns addressed in the "Visions of the Nineties" document can be fulfilled. This document specifies that new career, science and technology programs are crucial if we expect our students to be equipped for the career challenges in the next century.

The Throne Speech also noted the governments' steadfast commitment to maintaining a health care system based upon the principles of accessibility and universality. Responding to the impending difficulties confronting health care, the government supports streamlining and improving the health care system without simply relying on increased taxation and expenditures.

Following the Throne Speech the first government bill was tabled. Premier Getty introduced the Constitutional Referendum Act which will allow Albertans to vote on any proposed constitutional amendment through the use of a referendum prior to the ratification of any such amendment as required under the constitution of Canada.

I recognize that these are not easy times for the people and the government of Alberta.

Many events are beyond our ability to control, and only by a dedication of listening to each other and working together can we build a partnership that can successfully influence our future. We must be creative together as we move towards the 21st century.

If you need to contact me, desire any information, or just want to voice your concerns and opinions please call me at our constituency office at 556-3132 or my Edmonton office at 422-0141 (collect).

Canada's internal procedures are little changed. They will still hold up larger refunds and other returns not meeting their internal criteria.

6. Simply pushing a button to communicate information to Revenue Canada will not save an accountant much time. Experience and knowledge is often required before you can be sure of pushing the right button.

7. "The method saves a lot of time and money," is quoted but it isn't clear for whom. On the fact of it, it would not appear to save taxpayers any time. The main element of cost to the taxpayer is the amount of tax that Revenue Canada extracts. It is precisely on efforts to minimize or reduce this cost that accountants spend most of their time. So it seems that it's mainly Revenue Canada's 'time and money' that is going to be 'saved.' Don't let's hold our breath, however, waiting for them to lay off staff or to pass on any savings to the taxpayer.

8. Revenue Canada says "95% of taxpayers are eligible to make their tax returns through EFile." This seems to imply, erroneously we think, that it would somehow be to their advantage to do so. We would seriously challenge this, especially if the objective is to cut out the taxpayers' safeguard—the accountant. Finally,

9. "It's probably the most beneficial service Revenue Canada has ever offered"—How much do you think two or three weeks interest amounts to on the average refund of $300-400 at current rates? $2 or $3, right? Some benefit! And how much more, directly or indirectly, will taxpayers with balances have to pay? Some benefit!

Locals help in aerial search

Four local pilots, flying from the Olds/Didsbury Airport, joined the search for a lost plane last month as part of the largest aerial search ever held in Alberta.

Ken Bird of Didsbury, Jan Ingram of Sundre, and Morley Jones and Gerald Bakken of Olds took part in the search for a lost 1992 Beechcraft Bonanza which failed to arrive on schedule in Calgary from Rainbow Lake on March 19. Lost with the plane were pilot Delmar Henderson and passenger Hugh Bothner, both of Calgary.

In a press release issued last week, Ken Bird said the search, initiated by the Canadian Armed Forces and the volunteer Civilian Air Search and Rescue Association (CASARA), was well organized and effective.

"If survivors were able to signal with smoke or mirror flashes in the 3,500 square miles that we searched, the probability of rescue was very high," he said. "The training given to us by the military and CASARA is excellent as shown by this search."

Bird said 73 aircraft took part in the search, covering 135,000 square kilometers, including 10,000 feet high mountains and wet muskeg.

"It is gratifying to know that for a lost aircraft, hunter or child, there are well trained volunteers ready to conduct a search and rescue," Bird added. "I would like to complement those volunteers who were part of our crew through the week."

Local spotters who volunteered their time during the rescue attempt were: Don Ryan of Didsbury and Teresa Canning and Ron Botham of Sundre.

Jackson Women's Institute news

The March meeting of the Jackson W.I. met at the home of Elma Bird. There were 18 members and one guest present. The meeting started with our hostess' choice—My Wild Irish Rose—and then we repeated the creed. The roll call—"What I'd do if I had a whole day to myself and no responsibilities." The favorite choice was a day in bed while others chose shopping, gardening, reading and baking.

Lita Reid, as our secretary, read the minutes which were approved as read. There are 134 branches of W.I. in Alberta. That fact should enable us to have some impact on Alberta society. We realized an amount of $75.00 for our grab bag auction capably conducted by Gerda Niehaus. The money was donated to the Founder's Day Fund. Marie Olson gave the treasurer's report.

Our "husbands' party" was a success with a catered Chinese supper and slides presented by Jonathan and Jo Hutchinson. Twenty-five dollars was donated to the Gold and Silver Club for the use of their facilities.

Marie Olson and Marie Scott, our delegates to the District Five workshop at the Crowchild Inn, gave interesting reports on the conference and thanked the Institute for sending them.

Dates to remember:

April 14 - Constituency Conference at Harmattan on 9 a.m.

June 9 - Olds A.W.I. Convention. This will be a shortened conference.

Susan Holbrook and Nellie Davies volunteered to be hostesses and thanks at the constituency conference.

Joan Foat, our president, will be the voting delegate at the convention in June.

Mary Jane Davies was selected by the A.W.I. to be the provincial Agricultural Convenor. Congratulations Mary Jane!

We will hold the Fall Fair as in 1991. On a motion by Mary Jane Davies, Holly Hallett offered to head up the committee. It was decided to postpone our garage sale until 1993.

Mary Jane Davies introduced our guest speaker, Karen Begg, whose father operates the Studio West Foundry and Art Gallery in Cochrane. Karen led us through all the steps in making a bronze sculpture. There was also a marvelous display of some of their smaller sculptures. Karen invited us all to come to visit the studio and we even might be able to witness a "pouring" if we phone ahead. Thank you Karen.

A most appetizing lunch was served by Catherine Reid and Kay Unger.

The April meeting will be held at Helen Pearson's home on April 29th. The roll call will be "a good book I've read." Come and learn a new-old craft, "Hardanger" as demonstrated by Gerda Niehaus.

RELIGION

Bergthal Mennonite news

By Erna Goerzen

World Evangelism was the subject of a three-part lecture series presented in Bergthal Mennonite Church on last month by Missiology professor Fred Friesen, at the Mountain View Bible College. His first talk established the base for missions: The confession that Jesus Christ is Messiah.

The second session showed God's work in the world today as His followers spread the Good News to every area of the globe. This spread is most positive in Latin America, like El Salvador where one church has 90,000 members meeting in 120 worship places. In parts of Africa, the Gospel is also spreading like a fire. Uganda's population is 50% Christian and Nigeria alone sends out 2,000 Christian missionaries to other countries.

The former Soviet Union is now more open to God's message. Gideon Bibles are welcome in every high school and their distributors are asked to spend a whole day with the students. People are free to gossip the Good News in all the land, and pastors, recently released from prison, are invited back to preach to the prison inmates. In China where authorities are again tightening the repression of Christianity, God's power is erupting in a new movement dubbed "barefoot evangelism." Four- to six-thousand young single men are fanning out over the nation. They are constantly on the move, spreading the Gospel as they go. Africa also has its share of these barefoot evangelists, as persecution is increasing in some countries.

On the last evening, Mr. Friesen dealt with Christ's Great Commission to do missions, and why Canadian believers have become so slow in spreading the Good News. Three reasons he cited were:

1. Religious pluralism has led Canadian Christians to become so tolerant of other religions that they continue to talk with their adherents, but they do not proselytize.

2. Christians debate whether or not those who haven't heard of Jesus Christ are lost.

3. Many deny the authority of Scripture.

These sessions on world evangelism were an inspiration to the people at Bergthal Mennonite Church to take up the cause of spreading the Good News.

LANDIN

Mr. Arvid George Landin, of Innisfail, went to be with his Lord on Friday, March 27, 1992 at the Innisfail Health Care Centre at the age of 84 years.

Arvid was born on May 7, 1907 in Smoland, Sweden, immigrating to Canada in 1927. He was married to Thelma Dahl on August 16, 1944 and they had four children, Art, Garry, Agnes and Shirley.

Arvid and Thelma resided in the Spruce View community until retiring to Didsbury in 1974. They later moved to Innisfail in 1981.

After his retirement, Arvid enjoyed doing his wood-work and sharing his love and prayers with his family and friends.

He is ever remembered by his loving wife, Thelma and family, Art Landin of Spruce View, Garry Landin and his wife Jedan, of Rocky Mountain House, Agnes Collins and her husband John of Peterborough, Ontario, Shirley Buckland and her husband Tom of Innisfail; Arvid's nine grandchildren were special to him and especially his great-grandson; two brothers; two sisters in Sweden; one special cousin, Martha of Didsbury; three sisters-in-law; and one brother-in-law; numerous nieces and nephews in Canada and Sweden; and two special friends, Hank and Thora Kempstrup of Spruce View and a host of friends.

He was predeceased by his daughter-in-law, Margaret of Spruce View, three sisters and one brother of Sweden.

The family is thankful and grateful for Arvid's strong, devoted and loving faith and the many happy memories.

Funeral services were held on Tuesday, March 31, 1992 at the Metcalf Funeral Chapel, Innisfail, conducted by the Rev. Sam Sherman of Calgary and Arvid's nephew, the Rev. Larry Dahl of Edmonton.

Interment followed at the Dickson Cemetery, Dickson, Alberta.

If friends desire, memorial tributes may be made to the charity of the donor's choice.

Funeral service arrangements were entrusted to the Metcalf Funeral Chapel of Innisfail.

When you lose someone as dear as your mom, there are a number of questions that run through your mind. You experience emotions of sadness, guilt, loneliness, hurt and yes, joy. Mom's work here was over and she is safely resting in the arms of Jesus, her Lord and Saviour.

We sincerely thank everyone for your kindness and support shown us during this time. God bless.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of Danny Leclaire. "One precious to our hearts has gone The voice we loved is stilled. The place made vacant in our lives. Can never more be filled. Always a thought and many a tear, For the one we miss and loved so dear, The sudden way you had to die We shall always remember and wonder why No one can know the sorrow we share When the family meets and you're not there. We hold our tears when we speak your name, But the ache in our hearts remains the same." Lovingly remembered by Dad, Mom and family. 49-1tp
